In fact, according to the Dallas Morning News, over 500,000 Americans and Canadians are living in Mexico right this very minute — and that figure is up 500% from just 10 years ago.

Now add another 600,000 Europeans who have moved to Mexico and you’ll begin to realize something special is happening:

MORE AND MORE people are choosing Mexico as a place to live, work, and retire. Why? It’s simple. Your money goes a long, long way.

You can live much, MUCH better than you do now... on less than you’re spending now... but you don’t have to live in Mexico to benefit from Mexico. Anybody can save money...

Yes, indeed! Mexico is a bargain compared to the USA and Canada. It’s all possible because labor, food, and locally manufactured goods are much less expensive in Mexico. It is possible to live (or vacation) in Mexico for far less than you would spend virtually anywhere else. And best of all? The weather! If you are looking for the perfect place to live, vacation or simply winter-the-colder seasons, then a Mexico escape is definitely for you.

The reason why so many Americans and Canadians choose Mexico is due to its relatively close driving distance and proximity to the U.S. If you’re not 100% sure living in Mexico is for you, you should know that every day thousands of Americans cross the border to save money on prescriptions, dental care, health care, and practically everything else.

In my latest book, Money Saving Mexico, you’ll learn about a person named Nancy...

Nancy contacted me by email and told me her story: She was retired, living in Georgia and had no dental insurance... yet she was in desperate need of an extraordinary amount of dental work... to the tune of over $10,000! Ugh.

So what did Nancy do? She made plans to drive to Mexico! The cost of Nancy’s travel and her dental expenses are less than HALF of what she would have faced in The States!!

This is certainly not meant to judge U.S. dentists. They have their own issues to deal with including the increasing costs of malpractice insurance, high-profile office leases, and employee wages, etc., etc., etc. It all adds up and we end up paying for it.

But if YOU were faced with Nancy’s situation, what would you choose to do? Take out a loan, maybe even get second mortgage just to go to a U.S. dentist? Or would you rather keep most of your money and have the exact same procedure completed in Mexico?

An interesting side-note to Nancy’s story: If you do decide to go south of the border to take advantage of the incredible dental-care values, you'll be in for a REAL SHOCKER...

You'll probably be surprised by the fact that the people you will meet in the waiting rooms are almost always NOT Hispanic!

You'll visit with "snow-birds" from Washington and Oregon, part-time Canadian residents, and Californians and Arizonans just down for the day.

So you see... you don't have to live in Mexico to save money. Americans and Canadians go there all the time. Some fly in. Others drive in.

Regardless, they're all taking advantage of the incredible prices for prescriptions, dental work, medical care, eye-care, and more.

Retired or not... it doesn't matter! It's certainly not mandatory that you are a retiree in order to appreciate all the money you can save by going to Mexico.

In fact our sons (who live in the U.S.) go to Mexico for their dental and optical prescription needs all the time. (My oldest son just bought a pair of rimless designer glasses for $34.00 (tax included). The same pair of glasses would have cost him $300 in The States.)

And while he was across the border, he bought three HUGE 10-gallon, hand-crafted landscaping flowerpots for just $15.00 each (similar mass-produced pots are going for $60.00 EACH at Home Depot® right now.)

YES, you can have it all ... without skimping... without sacrificing... without just getting by. Money Saving Mexico shows you how.
