Research reveals that there is a link between substance use (and abuse) and gun violence. In a survey by the U.S. Department of Justice, more than half (52.4%) of state and federal prison inmates doing time for murder committed with guns reported they were under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs when they engaged in criminal behavior. ARISE SOS lessons are designed to change old attitudes using informal logic to critically examine negative tendencies. Misdirected concepts are analyzed, defined, and transformed into positive actions for dealing with previously acceptable (unacceptable!) norms. As in all ARISE SOS activities, participants themselves discover how their own self-destructive behaviors punish them and their families more severely than any judge or jury could. This learner's workbook contains worksheets and activities that, when used with the instructor's manual, help the learner understand the danger of substance abuse and guns. Also, by having their own workbook, learners feel welcome to answer freely in specific, not general terms, which will enhance their learning. The Work in Progress series is part of the award winning, statistically proven cognitive life skills series, SOS (Secrets of Success). Note: Workbooks must be used with corresponding instructor's manual.
